 Museum visited by arrangement

Atomic bunker is a unique attraction in Kaunas. This is a museum founded in the bunker, 6 meters under the ground. It is a private collection is the only of this kind in the world. It has more than 1,200 unusual functioning exhibits. Among the largest range of gas masks for adults you can see also masks for children and horses. You will be surprised about the abundance of radiation meters, civil protection devices, air horns, mobile chemical laboratories, closed-circuit breathing apparatuses, diving equipment, civil defence medical devices and instruments, electric generators, air compressors and a variety of portable floodlights.

The museum also exhibits the aviation security equipment, aircraft black boxes, life-saving equipment, navigation and other measuring devices. You will learn about the largest in the Baltic countries exhibition of radio communications, telephones, telephone switches, bearing finders, telegraph, antennas, headphones, military recorders, Morse code keys from the era of the two world wars. We would like to note that the museum is not intended to promote violence and ethnic hatred or ethnic superiority. This museum is part of the Lithuanian history. It is our nation's past and the legacy of our parents and grandparents.
